RE: Dyanna Larson, Ink Think

To whom it may concern:

It is without a minute's hesitation that I write this recommendation for Dyanna Larson of Ink Think for her recent editing assistance.

While in the process of redoing my business website, I realized that to finish off the professional appearance I needed someone to edit the dry content I had written. I was referred to Dyanna to edit the content. My greatest wish in the editing process, which I didn't think would be possible, was to have someone else jazz up my content and make it sound professional and still have my personality come. I can't say enough how pleased I was when I got the work back to read; I could see myself in the content but at the same time it flowed so smoothly and sounded so professional.

I was very impressed with the questions Dyanna asked about my personal and professional history to get to know me and my business better in order to be able to edit and rewrite the content knowledgeably.

I will definitely be contacting Dyanna for all my future editing and writing needs.

Thank you,
